

Dear Hiring Manager,

I am very interested in your listing for an IT maintenance technician and I believe I would be a good choice for the position. I understand this type of position asks for a significant amount of focus and adaptability. I can maintain a strong focus on a task for extended periods of time. My demeanor is quiet, calm, and straightforward, which I believe allows me to maintain my focus in situations where others would not. I also have a talent for learning and understanding complex systems, which allows me to solve unusual problems quickly and efficiently.

I am quite practiced in systems management and design, and make a hobby out of practicing and experimenting in this at home. I have set up production-ready server infrastructure and complex virtualized networks in real-world workplace situations and home learning environments alike. Learning and expanding these skills is a lifelong endeavor for me, and I hope to continue the opportunity to do so.

Best regards,

Ryan Peacock
